

METHODS AND APPARATUS FOR IMPROVING CRITICAL PATH ANALYSIS
USING GATE DELAY

Abstract of Invention

Disclosed are novel methods and apparatus for efficiently providing critical path analysis of a design. In an embodiment, an apparatus disclosed can assist in creating a single critical path schematic which can be used to simulate both rising and falling edge delays. This saves time as only one schematic and one simulation is required instead of the two generally required.